Overview

Will US anti-dumping probe on Indian solar modules hit exports?

U.S. anti-dumping probe on Indian solar modules may hit exports, impacting firms like Waaree and Adani amid rising domestic capacity and shifting global dynamics. News.

Will anti-dumping & countervailing duty Impact India's Solar Exports?

India's solar exports, particularly to the United States—a key growth market—are now under renewed pressure, with the latest anti-dumping and countervailing duty (AD/CVD) investigation launched by a consortium of American solar manufacturers threatening to disrupt the recent momentum built by Indian players in the clean energy export ecosystem.

Could India's solar export success story run into trouble?

India's solar exports success story could run into trouble if the U.S. entertains petitions from domestic manufacturers to impose anti-dumping (AD) and countervailing duties (CVD) on module imports.

Can India import solar modules from China?

After imposing import duties on Chinese solar modules, the U.S. Department of Commerce clarified the scope of the anti-circumvention probe last August, allowing the import of solar modules made outside of Southeast Asia. Indian solar exports have surged in the last couple of years, benefitting from restrictions on Chinese imports.
